UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

ARNOLD SUDER,

Plaintiff,

MERCK & COMPANY, INC., et al.

Defendant.

CASE NO. 06-CV-02013-JM(RBB)

ORDER GRANTING MOTION TO STAY PROCEEDINGS

15 Plaintiff Arnold Suder moves to remand this action to state court. Defendant
16 Merck & Company, Inc. (“Merck”) moves to stay this action pending a final transfer 17 decision by the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation (“JPMDL”). All motions are 18 opposed. Pursuant to Local Rule 7.1(d)(1), these motions are appropriate for submission
19 on the papers and without oral argument. For the reasons set forth below, the court
20 grants Merck’s motion to stay the proceedings.

BACKGROUND

22 This case is one of approximately 143 Vioxx products liability cases which 23 Merck removed to this Court from the Los Angeles County Superior Court between 24 September 15, 2006 and the present time. Merck removed these cases alleging diversity
25 jurisdiction. Immediately following removal, Merck notified the JPMDL of this 26 potential tag-along action and sought to have the cases transferred to the United States
27 District Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana (the “MDL court”), which is 28 handling the Multidistrict Litigation case In re Vioxx Products Litigation, MDL No.

1 1657. On October 17, 2006, the JPMDL issued a Conditional Transfer Order
 2 conditionally transferring this and most of the other Vioxx cases to the Eastern District
 3 of Louisiana for inclusion in the In re Vioxx Products Litigation. Plaintiff has notified
 4 the JPMDL of its opposition to such a transfer. The JPMDL has not yet resolved
 5 Plaintiff's opposition to the conditional transfer order.

6 Plaintiff opposes the transfer of this case to the MDL court in Louisiana. Plaintiff
 7 argues the federal courts lack subject matter jurisdiction because one of the Defendants
 8 named in the complaint, McKesson Corporation, is a citizen of California. As a result,
 9 Plaintiff seeks immediate remand to the state court prior to any transfer to the MDL
 10 court in Louisiana.

11 DISCUSSION

12 In considering whether to stay an action pending MDL transfer, the court should 13 consider three factors: (1) potential prejudice to the non-moving party; (2) hardship and 14 inequity to the moving party if the action is not stayed; and (3) the judicial resources
 15 that would be saved by avoiding duplicative litigation if the cases are in fact
 16 consolidated. Rivers v. Walt Disney Co., 980 F. Supp. 1358, 1360 (C.D. Cal. 1997).
 17 In opposition to Merck's motion to stay, Plaintiff points to an isolated few courts which 18 have remanded Vioxx cases rather than stay proceedings to permit the JPMDL to 19 determine whether transfer is appropriate. However, the overwhelming majority of 20 courts, including several judges of this court, have determined that a stay is appropriate
 21 pending transfer to the MDL. See In re Vioxx Product Liability Cases, Lead Case No.
 22 05cv943-DMS(LSP) (S.D. Cal. July 11, 2005) (staying 18 consolidated cases pending
 23 transfer to the MDL); McCrerey v. Merck & Co., No. 04cv2576-WQH(WMC) (S.D.
 24 Cal. March 5, 2005); Purcell v. Merck & Co., No. 05cv443-L(BLM) (S.D. Cal. June 6, 25 2005); Valentine v. Merck & Co., No. 06cv2154-DMS(JMA) (S.D. Cal. October 23, 26 2006); Alger v. Merck & Co., No. 06cv1888-IEG(WMC) (S.D. Cal. November 7, 2006).

28 The court is concerned that imposing a stay in this case will delay the resolution

1 of Plaintiff's motion to remand. If the case is not stayed, however, both parties face the 2 prospect of having to litigate the issue of subject matter jurisdiction before different
3 courts with the possibility of inconsistent rulings. Furthermore, it is particularly 4 appropriate to delay ruling on the Plaintiff's motion to remand because the cases which
5 this court previously transferred to the MDL court present identical jurisdictional issues
6 regarding McKesson's status as a proper Defendant. A stay of this case will promote 7 consistency and judicial economy.

8 In sum, the court stays the present proceedings.

9 IT IS SO ORDERED.
